A ROOF EPISODE

Have you never read of a person's hair turning gray in a single night? Of course you have. The old story books are full of such tales. I can remember dozens of them—stories reeking with gore and dank with dungeons and grewsome with ghosts and other uncanny things.

We were on the roof of the cathedral at Milan. We had climbed the stairs in the late afternoon of a beautiful spring day after paying the custodian the insignificant price he asked for all the glories visible from the elevated station. We had looked through the telescope for another fee and had each assured the others that we saw Mont Blanc perfectly well without for a moment believing what the others said or convincing them that we told the truth and had ended our climbs by ascending to the highest point under the lantern, if it is a lantern, by the corkscrew staircase, which will scarcely permit any but the thinnest persons to pass when one is going up and the other coming down.

We were a party of four, and when the roof was reached the youngest proposed a ramble over that portion of the structure. To this all but myself assented. I was tired and proposed to rest awhile at the foot of the tower stairs, where the others were to pick me up on their return, so that we might all descend together. This was satisfactory, and off they started.

For a time I was quite comfortable and paid no attention to the passage of time, but I suddenly noticed that it was getting dark and that my companions had not returned. I called to them first in a moderate tone of voice, then more loudly, but received no answer.

Fearing that they would be belated on the roof, I started in search of them. I walked the entire length of the ridge of the main roof and peered down all the side passages in the gathering dusk, but caught no glimpse of my companions. Then I descended to the roof of the aisle and made a search there, which was also fruitless. I became alarmed as the light failed and ran from one point to another, calling out as I ran, until I found, to my great distress, that I had lost my way. I could see far below me the lights of the great city and hear the distant rumbling of the carriages as they drove past on the stony streets.

But I was as effectually lost for the moment as if I had been in the heart of an African jungle without a compass and no Stanley on the alert to hunt me up. In the excitement and despair which the consciousness of this fact produced I rushed about so wildly that I slipped and fell on a long flight of stone steps, wet with the dew which had begun to fall. I was not conscious of any serious injury from the fall, but when I brought up at the foot of the stairs and tried to regain my footing I found, to my despair and horror, that I was utterly unable to move my limbs. I was paralyzed.

The mental agony I suffered is inconceivable. Yet, curiously enough, I spent the first moments in speculating as to the exact nature of the injury I had sustained. Had I broken my back or simply injured my spinal cord? I tried to recall what I had heard my doctor friends say about injuries of a similar character, but could not seem to remember anything definite. The words, "the fifth pair," flashed into my mind and appeared to connect themselves in some way with my condition, but whether it was the fifth pair of nerves or ribs or of something else I could not make out.

I could not understand either how I could have been so seriously injured without any sensible shock, but that my power of locomotion was gone there was no doubt. I could move my hands, and I began to speculate on the number of things one could do with one's hands alone. This occupied me for what seemed to be an hour, but as the train of thought was interrupted by a clock striking the hour of midnight I concluded it must have been much longer and wondered I had not heard the preceding hours.

Suddenly the full horror of my condition flashed upon me. I was not only doomed to remain where I was, helpless and alone, during the long, chilly hours of the night, but there was no certainty that I would ever get away alive. My friends would never dream that I was there. They had undoubtedly concluded that I had gone down, and if they missed me would search everywhere but in the right place. It might be days before the particular spot in which I lay would be visited, and in that case it would be too late. Starvation would do for me even if the injury I had received did not. In my anguish I shrieked aloud, but was dully conscious all the time that nobody could hear me. Visitors and custodians alike must have departed hours before, and even if my cries were heard from the streets below nobody would attribute them to their real source.

To the feeling of acute anguish succeeded one of blank despair. I no longer speculated on the possibility of being discovered, dead or alive. There was a dull, leaden feeling at my chest, and I found myself repeating mechanically old rhymes and jingles and saying the alphabet backward, as I once learned to do in seeking relief from insomnia. Yet at the same time I was conscious that my whole life was passing in review before me, as they say it does when one is drowning or being hanged. I remembered that saying, too, and without any cessation of the review I wondered in my doubled consciousness if I were undergoing the sensations of a drowning man or of one being hanged and wished I could put them down on paper for the benefit of the rest of mankind.

What struck me as singular was that the clocks kept on striking 12. The second time they did this I thought I must have lost consciousness for an entire day and that this was the second midnight. But when the third stroke of 12 came from half a dozen clocks I knew it could not be two days since I had fallen.

I thought first that I had become demented, and then it occurred to me that if I were I could not reason about it in that fashion, so the clocks themselves must be crazy. This theory satisfied me until the striking began again, when I went off in another fantastic speculation. My friends had discovered that I was missing and were having the bells rung to keep my spirits up.

Oh, the long, long, weary hours I spent in waiting for a glimpse of daylight! I had no hope that daylight would bring me any relief, but the prospect of staying where it was endless midnight seemed unendurable. I groaned and wept and dug my nails into the palms of my hands until it seemed as if the blood would come, but I did not even feel any sense of pain.

It must have been after the clocks had struck midnight a dozen times or more—I kept no exact account—that I saw in the distance at what seemed to be the farther end of the cathedral roof two faint glimmers of light. Presently there were two more and then two more, until there was a regular procession of them. I tried to shout, but had become so weak with cold and suffering that I could not raise my voice above a whisper.

The lights nevertheless approached, growing gradually stronger, until I could see that they were borne by several black robed figures that were marching beside a coffin. As the procession moved slowly toward me I began to wonder what it meant and whether funerals took place at midnight on the roof of Milan cathedral. Then I speculated a moment on the propriety of disturbing the obsequies even in my extreme need. Suddenly it dawned upon me that this was my own funeral, and I knew that I was either dead or had gone mad. In the supreme anguish of this discovery all memory of past suffering was blotted out, and I entered on a new period of the most exquisite torture. Fortunately it was of brief duration. As the foremost of the moving figures reached me I felt a grasp on my arm, and a voice called in my ear:

"Wake up, father. It's time to be going down. I guess you must have had your yoke turned."

It was my daughter, and beside her were the rest of the party, flushed with their ramble on the roof. I straightened out my cramped limbs, which must have gone to sleep about the time I did, and pulled out my watch. I had been there just fifteen minutes.

I don't mean to be understood that my hair really did turn gray in that night of horror on Milan cathedral. In the first place, there is not much of it, and what there is has been tolerably gray for some years. But I do mean to say that I am not incredulous as to the possibility of such a capillary change as the story books tell about.

Volcanoes In North America.

In our North American possessions are volcanoes to spare. There are fifteen active craters in Alaska and a score more in repose which may at any time break forth. The Alaska volcanoes have been active during all the time the country has been known to civilized man. In 1796 an island was formed thirty miles north of Unalaska by volcanic action. Eight years later when revisited the soil was still warm. This island has gradually been increasing in size, probably by upheaval of land. Just across Bering strait another volcano in Kamchatka, 15,000 feet in height, erupted in 1829 with a noise that was heard for fifty miles. One of the volcanoes in Cook inlet is 14,000 feet high.—Era.

Indian Gambling.

White men gamble with cards, but the Indian uses gayly colored sticks with which to woo capricious fortune. The Thenikeets' "deck" consists of thirty sticks, which they name "crabs," "ducks," etc. The sticks are shuffled and seven are hid in a tuft of grass. The remainder are covered. The game consists in guessing in which piles are certain of the animals named. The Indians will stake all they possess, including wives and children, on the game. Similarly the Haidahs play "odd and even" with sticks, the winner being he who gets all the sticks. The game of the Colvilles is called "alkollock" and is played with spears cast through rings. Nearly all the Selish tribes of the British northwest territories scorn the ordinary forms of gambling and bet only on horse racing.

DON'T LISTEN

To what people say when they would discourage your hope of exchanging womanly weakness and sickness for perfect health. Women who have been invalids for years, scarcely able to be up half the time, and the other half of their time spent in bed, have been made healthy, hearty women by the use of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It cures the womanly diseases which undermine the strength. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"With pleasure I send a few lines to let you know that I feel much better than for eight years before taking your 'Favorite Prescription,'" writes Mrs. Pierce Geise, of 822 West Philadelphia Street, York, Penn'a. "Will recommend Dr. Pierce's medicine to every person who may inquire as to what it has done for me. I was troubled with female weakness and began to think I would never be well. If I had continued the treatment prescribed by my doctor I don't know what would have become of me. When your treatment was commenced my weight was 108 lbs.; at present it is 130. Have healthy color and my friends say I look well. My best thanks to you and my best wishes too, for what you have done for me."

"Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong, sick women well. Accept no substitute for the medicine which works wonders for weak women.

VERY SAD DEATH.

Little Girl Shot and Instantly Killed by Her Little Brother.

Little Elsie Sutton, aged three and one-half years, met with a shocking death on Sunday at her home near Geyserville. With her seven-year old brother Cecil, she was playing in the yard. The boy espied a hawk and hurried to the barn for the gun to take aim at the bird. In some way the weapon exploded prematurely and the charge lodged in his sister's breast. Death was instantaneous. It was purely accidental. The grief stricken parents have the sympathy of everybody in their terrible bereavement. The little one they have lost was the sunshine of their home.

Stricken With Paralysis

Henderson Grimett of this place was stricken with partial paralysis and completely lost the use of one arm and side. After being treated by an eminent physician for quite a while without relief my wife recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and after using two bottles of it he is almost entirely cured — Geo. R. McDonald, Man, Logan county, W. Va. Several other very remarkable cures of partial paralysis have been effected by use of this liniment. It is most widely known, however, as a cure for rheumatism, sprains and bruises. Sold by F. Duhring. *

OVER THE LINE.

Procrastination is the Thief of Health.

Nature is a very wise and careful mother but she is dumb. She speaks by signs. The man or woman who does not heed her signs or fails to understand them must pay the penalty. Some day there will be a step over the line beyond which Nature's warnings cease and her penalties begin. For instance there is a man who for years never knew he had a stomach, it performed its work so perfectly. Some day after eating he has a little sour or bitter rising in the throat. He does not heed it. Later he feels an uncomfortable fullness after eating, a distress in the region of the stomach and perhaps he is uncomfortable enough to wonder whether he ought not to "do something" for himself. But he does not get any farther than wondering. He becomes sleepless, loses flesh, and has other warnings of the development of disease but he still tries to work. Some day he collapses, drops down perhaps at his task and when he comes to himself in bed he is seriously ill. He is paying the penalty for his heedlessness of Nature's warnings. Whenever there are undue fullness after eating, sour or bitter eructations, belchings, and kindred symptoms it is the sign that disease is fastening on the stomach and digestive and nutritive tracts. Disease unless checked is always progressive, and it is only a question of time in such cases, when the health and strength will be seriously undermined.

TAKE NO RISKS.

The wise man or woman will take no risks but will attend to the first symptoms of disease of the stomach. Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery which has cured thousands of people who were suffering from the most aggravated forms of disease of the stomach and its allied organs of digestion and nutrition may be relied on quickly and permanently to cure such diseases in their earlier stages. Its action is prompt and efficient. Its effects are lasting. The whole body being fully nourished is built up with sound flesh, not with flabby fat.

"For about two years I suffered from a very obstinate case of dyspepsia," writes R. E. Secord, Esq., of 13 Eastern Ave., Toronto, Ontario. "I tried a great number of remedies without success. I finally lost faith in them all. I was so far gone that I could not bear any solid food on my stomach for a long time; felt melancholy and depressed. Could not sleep nor follow my occupation (tinsmith). Some four years ago a friend recommended your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' After a week's treatment I had derived so much benefit that I continued the medicine. I have taken three bottles and am convinced it has in my case accomplished a permanent cure. I can conscientiously recommend it to the thousands of dyspeptics throughout the land."

HOW STRENGTH IS RESTORED.

People as a rule have a somewhat vague idea of the manner in which life is sustained and supported. They know they must eat to live. But they do not consider that when the stomach and digestive and nutritive tracts are diseased, the object of eating, which is the nutrition of the body, cannot be perfectly attained. Only part of the food eaten is converted into nutrition, and the body is but partly nourished. Yet the body is required to do as much daily as if it were being fully nourished. The result is the wasting of the flesh, loss of weight which goes hand in hand with loss of strength, and general debility. When the diseased stomach is cured by "Golden Medical Discovery," the food is digested and assimilated and in the form of nourishment restores the strength and vigor of the body, the proof of this being written in the pounds and ounces of lost flesh which are rapidly regained. The only way in which physical strength can be made is by food, digested and assimilated. When the stomach and its allied organs are diseased the digestion is imperfect, the assimilation partial, consequently there is a daily loss of strength. When Dr Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures the diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, the food eaten is properly digested and assimilated, the body is adequately nourished, and thus its strength is restored.

"I will express my thanks to you for the kindly advice you have given me in regard to my case," writes Miss Carrie J. Wharton, of Dunavant, Spottsylvania Co., Va. "When I wrote to you last spring I was in a terrible state of health. Had given up all hope of ever being better. I spit up my food all the time and it seemed sour as vinegar. I would have a bad sick headache every other week; in fact, my head never felt clear, and I was perfectly broken down under the strain of losing my food constantly. I was not able to have a physician attend me, but had read a great deal in your books of what your medicine had done for others, so I wrote you and got your advice. Bought two bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and the first dose I took I felt better. When I had finished taking the two bottles the spitting up had entirely stopped and my head was much better. I do not say it has yet made an entire cure of me, as it required more than that for me, as I was so very bad, but I believe your medicines are just what you have said of them.

"I carefully read the books you sent me and shall always speak a good word for the 'Golden Medical Discovery' whenever I have a chance.

"You can publish this if you think it worth while. It might induce some one else to try your medicine who was suffering as I did. It was by the testimonials of others that I was induced to try it. I shall always rely upon your advice and feel safe to do as you tell me."

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It cures through the stomach diseases which seem remote from that organ but which have their origin in disease of the stomach and its allied organs.

If the dealer offers a substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery," remember that the sole motive of substitution is to enable him to make the little more profit paid by the sale of less meritorious preparations.

Dredging on the Jones Ranch.

Capt. Kennedy of the dredger Nevada and a crew of "mud slingers," are engaged in digging a canal alongside of the division line of the Senator Jones and Senator Fair ranches. The canal will extend from Sonoma creek on the west to within a few feet of the railway track of the California Northwestern on the east. The canal, which will be twenty five or thirty feet in width, is being constructed to carry off into Sonoma creek the surplus water from the hills on the Fair ranch, which is tremendous at times during the rainy season. On several occasions this fresh water flowing from the hills of the Fair ranch have converted the leveed lands of the lower Jones place into an inland sea of rain water. It is to obviate this and protect the grain crop each season that the canal is being constructed.

DR. W. H. LAWLOR.

Withdraws Resignation With Consent of Directors.

He is Still in Charge of the Home and Will Likely Remain.

At a meeting of the Directors of the California Home, held last Saturday afternoon, by the votes of Directors Gould, Leland, Lyons and Bane, Dr. Wm. M. Lawlor was permitted to withdraw his resignation tendered some time ago, and was granted the investigation urged in the following written request:

Eldridge, Cal., Aug 15th.

To the Honorable Board of Trustees of the California Home for the Care and Training of Feeble Minded Children—Gentlemen: I beg herewith to withdraw the resignation as superintendent of the Home which was presented by me to your honorable body, and I ask permission to do this on the ground that said resignation was offered under stress of circumstances unusual in character; that same was ill-advised and the result of strong pressure brought to bear upon me by well-meaning but misguided friends, who mistook the clamors of political newspapers for the voice of public opinion. Having had an opportunity to reflect upon the situation and after observing the effect of such resignation, I have discovered in my desire for political peace and to save my friends from embarrassment that I have been unjust to myself, that my conduct in this regard has been wrongfully construed as a partial admission of the truth of the charges against me in the newspapers, and now, realizing that I have wronged myself in seeking to retire under fire, I respectfully petition your honorable body for an official investigation (which has never yet been had or attempted), to the end that I may disprove these untruthful and unjust accusations and clear the reputation of myself and family of the stigma placed upon them.

WM M LAWLOR, M D

The Directors were to have met again Tuesday to take further action in the matter, but for some cause or another failed to do so, and the doctor still holds the fort.

Public sentiment appears to be gradually drifting toward Dr. Lawlor, and now that a majority of the Directors appear to favor him, and with his withdrawal out of the way, it looks like he would be given another chance and be allowed to retain his position. In any event, he is in the hands of Directors friendly to him and if the investigation he calls for should show that he is a victim of persecution it would go a long way in his favor with those Directors.

DR. H. H. DAVIS LOSES POSITION

Directors of the Home Discharge the Physician.

Dr. Edward Gray of Berkeley Appointed to Succeed Him.

At a meeting of the Directors of the California Home, held at Eldridge last Saturday afternoon, Dr. H. H. Davis, the resident physician, who has held the position for nearly a year, was removed and Dr. Edward Gray of Berkeley was elected to succeed him.

The removal of Dr. Davis was not unexpected, and considering the stormy times at the Home the past six months the only wonder is that he was permitted te hold on to the job as long as he did.

Previous to his removal by the Directors Dr. Davis had been officially notified by Dr. Lawlor that he stood dismissed by his orders, there having been a friction between the two medicos ever since the former took a stand against the latter, which dates back almost from the day Dr. Lawlor assumed the duties of Superintendent.

Dr. Davis, who was a successful practicing physician in this place for eighteen years previous to accepting the position of resident physician at the Home under Dr. A. E. Osborne, the former Superintendent, has made no plans for the future. He may again take up his abode here and resume the practice of medicine or he may locate elsewhere.

On the opening day of the duck shooting season it is said that ten members of the Alameda Gun Club bagged 500 birds, being fifty ducks for each hunter, the limit allowed by law.

THE REPUBLICAN NOMINEES.

Hold Rousing and Enthusiatic Meeting.

They Were Well Received and Made a Favorable Impression.

The Republican nominees made their bow to the people of Sonoma in Union Hall last Tuesday evening.

The meeting, which was presided over by Dr. G. D. Rich, the Sonoma member of the Executive Board of the Republican County Central Committee, was largely attended, many ladies being present.

Many of the candidates made a very favorable impression on our people, especially was this so of Chas. H. Pond, candidate for District Attorney, who was an entire stranger to our citizens. Mr. Pond's speech was pronounced one of the best of the evening. Of course Judges Dougherty and Burnett were received with the old time cordiality by their Sonoma friends, who are legion. The same may be said of Victor Piezzi, nominee for the Assembly; E. F. Woodward, nominee for State Senator and N. V. V. Smythe, nominee for Surveyor, and Glen Murdock, nominee for Treasurer.

The meeting was called to order by Dr. Rich, who introduced the candidates, each in their turn, to the audience. The nominees gave a brief account of themselves and all were well received.

The principal and last speaker of the evening was Rolfe L. Thompson and the way he scored the Democratic party was a caution. It was the opinion of many conservative Republican voters present that our young friend was a little too severe on his "friends the enemy." There are always two sides to every question, however, and by many his speech was highly commended.

There was singing by a quartet composed of Olney and Grayson Pedigo, Lloyd Hendrix and Fred. Baird.

Among those who occupied a position on the stage with the county nominees was Andrew G. Myers, Republican nominee for a member of the State Board of Equalization from the Third District.

An excellent program will be presented each evening. The great feature of the opening night will be an address by Father Yorke of San Francisco. On Friday evening, October 17th, the local minstrels, assisted by E. Lambert and J. C. Lemar of the Columbia Minstrels of San Francisco, will give a grand performance and will sing the latest comic songs. Admission to the hall will be 25 cents. A Typical South African Store

O. R. Larson of Bay Villa, Sundays River, Cape Colony, conducts a store typical of South Africa, at which can be purchased anything from the proverbial "needle to an anchor." This store is situated in a valley nine miles from the nearest railway station and about twenty-five miles from the nearest town. Mr. Larson says: "I am favored with the custom of farmers within a radius of thirty miles, to many of whom I have supplied Chamberlain's remedies. All testify to their value in a household where a doctor's advice is almost out of the question. Within one mile of my store the population is perhaps sixty. Of these, within the past twelve months, no less than fourteen have been absolutely cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This must surely be a record. For sale by F. Duhring. *

Wild Fowl Can Distinguish Marks of a Human Being.

The successful turkey hunter is probably the most scientific sportsman in the world. He matches himself against the acutest of all feathered things.

The turkey is not only gifted with extraordinary sight, hearing, wariness and alertness, but it knows the woods better than any mere man can know them, and it has distinctly the faculty of casualty or reason. A turkey knows not only that the appearance of a certain part of the ground is not right, but also why it is not right.

It will distinguish readily between marks of passage made by a wild animal and a human being. Negroes assert that it can smell powder, just as they believe that a cow can smell powder, but there is no evidence that its sense of smell is specially developed.

Its power of flight is not great, nor is it enduring on foot. There are many animals which prey upon it and can outrun it. It has had to depend for preservation upon its intellect, and this intellect has come to be remarkably developed.

The turkey is not hard to find and kill when it is gobbling from a treetop in the early spring morning, but the person who goes after one later in the day must know his business. It is sometimes taken in traps made of logs and roofed with branches, there being an entrance under the bottom log. Once inside, having been tolled there by parched corn grains, it travels around and around looking for an exit higher than its head.

It is sometimes slain, too, by being led to a shallow trench dug in the woods and sprinkled with parched corn, a V shaped blind having been prepared thirty yards away. If shot legitimately, however, at any time save at daybreak or when flying into its roost at night, it must be called to the hidden gun, and in this the science of the hunter is made manifest.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Old Pirates' Laws.

The customs and regulations most commonly observed on board a buccaneer are worth noting. Every pirate captain doubtless had his own set of rules, but there were certain traditional articles that seem to have been generally adopted. The captain had the state cabin, a double vote in elections, a double share of booty. On some vessels it was the captain who decided what direction to sail in, but this and other matters of moment were oftener settled by a vote of the company, the captain's vote counting for two. The officers had a share and a half or a share and a quarter of all plunder and the sailors one share each. Booty was divided with scrupulous care, and marooning was the penalty of attempting to defraud the general company if only to the amount of a goldpiece or a dollar. Every man had a full vote in every affair of importance.

Arms were always to be clean and fit for service, and desertion of the ship or quarters in battle was punished with death.

The Advantage of Wealth.

This is the great advantage of wealth. It is not that it gives you the opportunity of leading a more luxurious and self indulgent life; it is not that you can have a fine house and garden, books and pictures, travel and society, but it is that you have it in your power to help others, to lift them over hard places and to give them the substantial encouragements that are so useful. But this power does not reside merely in the possession of money; it also goes with good health, a cheerful disposition, knowledge, skill, or any advantage that you have over those less favored. All these things are trusts, and we make the noblest and most satisfying use of them when we use them as trusts, not for ourselves, but to promote the welfare of others.

Woman's Own.

A close student of woman has collected a few uses to which she can turn a hairpin: Pick a lock, as a button hook, draw out a nail, do up a baby, see if a joint is done, fasten a door, repair a baby carriage, put up a curtain, cut a pie, rake a fire, make a fishhook, make a fork, regulate a range, stir batter, whip cream, saw cake, shovel bonbons, doctor an automobile, tighten windows, peel an apple, wake up a cat, beat an egg, serve as a toothpick; but the most precious purpose of all—lend it to her husband to clean out his pipe!—Detroit Tribune.

Children and Fire.

If, as sometimes happens, the clothing of the children takes fire, instruct them not to run, especially out of doors or downstairs. Tell them to roll on the ground or carpet or wrap in woolen rug or blanket, keeping the head down so as not to inhale the flame.

Excursions to the East

Those contemplating an Eastern trip will be interested to know that the Rio Grande System is operating via the Scenic Line of the World daily excursion cars through from the Pacific Coast without change to Denver, Kansas City, Omaha, Chicago, St. Louis, New York, Boston and intermediate points.

These are the Pullman Ordinary or Tourist sleepers, provided with comfortable berths, bedding and linen of the Pullman standard They have separate lavatories, are well lighted and heated, and in fact only differ from the more expensive "standard" cars in the character of the upholstery and inside finishing.

A HIGH TENOR.

Anna Louise Cary's Unsuspected Part In a Cat Duet.

The late Anna Louise Cary once figured in an amusing incident at one of the monthly meetings of the Boston Clef club. The club was composed exclusively of men all interested directly or indirectly in music, and at the meetings the best of entertainment was always provided by the members themselves. Among these were the two brothers, Will and John Winch, who at this time were in great demand owing to their beautiful voices. Will Winch possessed a magnificent bass and John an equally fine tenor. On the occasion in question their contribution to the evening's entertainment was a novel composition of their own, a supposed duet between an old, world experienced tomcat and his hot headed, impatient son, who had fallen hopelessly in love with a sleek tabby of the neighborhood.

Seating themselves on the edge of the platform on which stood nothing save an ordinary Japanese screen, the two singers began their amusing performance, which opened with a stern upbraiding of the youthful back fence prowler by his more prudent and experienced father. The reply was given by the tenor, who, breaking forth into an impassioned love song, poured forth his whole soul in the praise of his mistress and of the divine passion.

Having reached the highest tone of his voice, Winch struck a single falsetto note, and then followed a series of the purest, the most beautiful, birdlike notes to which the dumfounded hearers had ever listened. And still the wonderful voice soared upward. A moment and the final height was reached, and the song abruptly ceased. From behind the screen a woman's laughing face appeared—that of Anna Louise Cary—and the mystery was one no longer. It was she who had carried on the song from the moment of the striking of the falsetto note, and so well had the deception been carried out that not one of those present had doubted that he was still listening to the voice of John Winch.—New York Post.

The Abbotsbury Swannery.

Some interesting particulars are given in the London Magazine of the Abbotsbury swannery, which is stated to be the largest in Great Britain. This is situated on the Fleet, a long stretch of brackish water lying within the Chesil Beach, near Weymouth. Tradition holds that this swannery is over 800 years old, and there is documentary evidence that it existed in the time of the Tudors.

On a stretch of low marshy ground adjoining the Fleet the swans assemble in March and April for nesting, and last spring there were over 400 nests placed closely together, the entire swannery containing 1,150 birds. The birds pair for life, in that respect resembling the carrion crow, this being the most meritorious point in the natural history of that not very popular bird.

Although each of the 400 nests of Abbotsbury contains on an average six eggs, of which four or five are hatched, so great is the waste of life among the young cygnets that only thirty or forty new birds are added to the flock each year.

Currant Juice.

If the stomach is deficient in gastric juice so that the unused food lies there as a weight and presently sends toward the throat volumes of acrid gas, indicating a disagreeable phase of indigestion and later giving its victim sick headache, then currant juice should be taken. This will work upon the acids of the food, stimulate the stomach coats and compel the slow gastric juice to do its work. The evil gas will depart and the headache will go by this natural medicine. The strained juice of either red or black currants stewed with but little sugar will answer the purpose well.

Information For a Stranger.

Two Celts, one a stranger in the city, were taking in the sights, and in the course of their trip around town passed the Odd Fellows' temple in Broad street. The gilt lettering of the order's initials, "I. O. O. F.," caught the eye of the stranger, who asked:

"What be the maining av that sign?"

"That?" asked his companion. "Why, mon, that shows th' building is jist 100 feet tall."—Philadelphia Times.

Startled Her.

A young lady from London was visiting for the first time a country farm. Seeing a cow looking very savage, she said to an old farmer, "Oh, how savage that cow looks!"

"Yes, miss; it's the red parasol you are carrying," said the farmer.

"Well," she said, "I knew it was a trifle out of fashion, but I never thought a country cow would notice it."—London Answers.
